CHARGE OF ABORTION AGAINST MADAME RESTELL—
INVESTIGATION POSTPONED.
Before Justi se Stuart.

Yesterday afternoon was the time appointed for the investigation to take place in the matter pending against Madame Restell, charged with causing an abortion on the person of Miss Cordella A. Grant, and also against George R. Shackford, accused of being accessory to the perpetra tion of the offence.

Three o'clock was the time specified for the commence ment of the investigation, and in consequences of the pub-icity given through the cally papers, considerable exute-ment was produced, and full an hour before the appointed time people began to flock into the court, and soon ccupied every available seat in that spacious room, and before three o'clock there was not stunding room. The passage way leading to the court was also jammed up with human beddes, all crowding forward with anxious impatience to see and hear all that mas going on. A few minutes before three o'clock Madame Restell made her appearance, accompanied by her husband, and both were closeted in one of the ante-rooms. She was dressed in a handsome white satin hat and black here well; in fact, her whole appearance was very genteel. She carries with her, as usual, the same husbands.

closeted in one of the aute-rooms. She was dressed in a handsome white satis hat and black lice veit; in fact, her whole appearance was very genteel. She carries with her, as usual, the same business-like manner. Mr. Shackford was also pre-ent; he is a gentlemanly looking man, rather full face, black hair, whickers and moustaches. However, the large ascemblage present on the coasion seemed to embarrase him. Is this mixed gathering we particularly noticed several old batchelors, whose curicely had dra-m them to the court, evidently for the purpose of watching the progress and term nation of such matters, not knowing whose turn may come next. A few minutes after three o'clock Mr. Rehard Butteed, connect for Miss Grant, and also on the part of the prosecution, entered the sourt room, and some after ex Recorder Falmadge, who appeared as counsel for the defendants.

Mr. Busteed then addressed the Court as follows:—

May it please the Court—I appear here as counsel for Miss Grant, on the part of the prosecution, and I am extremely surry to announce that she is isboring under a severe indisposition, with a slight congestion of the lungs and her voice is almost completely inaudible. I was with her until a late hour last evening, and she was then quite unfit to be examined as a witness; notwithstanding all this, however, i requested her to be at my office at two o'clock this day, and I was to have accompanied her; but having been engaged in the Supreme Court on the extraction case up to near three o'clock, I was unable to go to my office, and supposing she would be ast court I came up forth with. I now move for a postponement on account of her severe indisposition.

Mr. Talmadge—In this matter I appear for the defendance.

posing she would be at court I came up forthwith. I now move for a postponement on account of her severe indisposition.

Mr. Talwadge—in this matter I appear for the defendants. We are here ready to proceed with the investigation, and wish to have the benefit of this woman's cross-examination. There is more than an offdinary excitement manifested in the community is this matter, and we want to exhibit as early as possible to the public the utter fallacy of this woman's statement, and we wish the court to understand that we are ready, that no postponement is saked by us. We wish to know now if they intend to bring forward any other witnesses.

Justice Stuart—I mean to proceed with all possible speed in this case; but if the witness is as severely indisposed as represented to be by the counsel, Il geritally cannot, nor you cannot, expect to proceed under such sirrountances. I set the case down for this day, believing that all would be ready but, as the witness is not here, I see no other alternative than to adjourn it over. As regard's taking up other witnesses, I must say, in justice to the proceeding, that it have one or two witnesses where testimony will corroborate that of Miss Grant; indeed, i may say there are interr, or a letter, which in truth will show much towards the corroboration of the complaint; also the hotel books confirm her statement. Therefore until you have, by a cross-examination, in some degree impeached her evidence, I deem it unnesses say to produce that evidence.

Just at this moment a general rush was made in the court room, and word was passed to the court—"The witness is here," "These she his," "make way," 'elet her pass." A perfect jam was then made towards Miss Grant, who here if through the crowd. The young lady was encorted to a side room, and Mr. Busteed immediately sought an interview; som after, he returned to the court and an occord with the investigation.

Mr. Talmadge—Oh, we don't wish to trouble the woman.

Mr. Busteed (in a sercattic manner)—No, I should think not; she has neetered this time was really too much indisposed to proceed with the investigation.

Mr. Talmadge—Ob, we don't wish to trouble the woman.

Mr. Busteed (in a sarcastic manner)—No, I should think not she has been troubled enough already.

Justice Stuari announced that the case stool adjourned until Wednesdy aftersoon of next week at three o'clock. In and about the court room there must have been several hundred people, a large number of whom waited about the hall and door way for the purpose of catching a view of Mits Grant and of Madame Reatell, as they left, who, from the latter's notoriety, many expressed a wish to see. Mr. Busteed accompanied Miss Grant from the court, followed by a large number of people, up Ninth street, for the purpose of gratifying their courosity.

After of a Shap Lefter—A fellow calling himself Wm.

Miller alias Pussia, was yestedy arrested, charged with stealing from the store of Bowen, McNamee & Go., in Breadway, flattee, dones slike travat, valued at 2250. It seems the regne entered the store and inquired of one of the clerks where Stewart's store was and as he left hapicked up the cravats and ran off. The clerk pursued him and the regne dropped the plunder. The ingulities was stepped and conveyed to the police court by the police, and Justice Begart committed him to prison for trial.

A Zinc Ship.—We mentioned at the time, that a vessel had been launched at Nantes, built of sinc, in the yard of M. Guibert, of that port. The Counte Lebon, which was the name given to her, has just returned from her voyage to Rio Janeiro, and, from the report of the captain, the experiment has been perfectly satisfactory, the vessel having proved an excellent see boat in repeated gaies which she had encountered. The captain also states a fast which is of great importance, namely, that her compasses had never been affected, a thing which has frequently happened on board iron built vessels, and by which the most fearful accidents have been caused.—Gaignass's Messenger.
